Indiana University and the Autoimmune Hepatitis Association present:

Autoimmune Hepatitis Patient Support and Education Weekend

The Autoimmune Hepatitis Association (AIHA) is pleased to announce the first national autoimmune hepatitis (AIH) conference for people with AIH and their loved ones. The meeting will take place on the campus of Indiana University-Purdue University (IUPUI) in Indianapolis, Indiana on May 16th and 17th, 2015.

Background:

The AHA was created in 2014 by a liver research team at Indiana University and members of AIH social media networks. This partnership realized that many individuals wanted interaction with others with the same disease as well as expert led education in AIH. We planned this conference to meet those needs.

Conference:

The AIHA conference will begin Saturday, May 16th and finish Sunday, May 17th, 2015. The conference will have expert led talks with question and answer sessions. The talks will cover many topics related to AIH and related health issues. This conference will also include specific topics for children and teens with AIH. The conference is free.

Presenters:

The AIHA conference will be led by both adult and pediatric liver doctors at Indiana University as well as qualified allied staff from other relevant medical fields.

Attendees:

Attendees should have or help care for someone with known AIH or an AIH overlap syndrome. Attendees will be responsible for the cost of travel and lodging.

Reservation:

Conference space will be limited. Participation will be reserved by RSVP and confirmation. Due to space limitations, one guest per registrant is allowed (2 guests for those 18 years old and under). The RSVP site has been opened well in advance allowing attendees time to plan their trip to Indianapolis. There is prearranged discounted pricing at the Hyatt Regency hotel in downtown Indianapolis available.

To reserve your spot at the conference follow the link:

https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/AIHA_Conf

Follow-up:

More specific conference details will be posted on the Autoimmune Hepatitis Research Network at http://www.aihepatitis.com and our Facebook page (search Autoimmune Hepatitis Research Network) in the upcoming months. You may also follow us on twitter @AIH_Association. Further questions should be sent via email to josdlove@iu.edu.